

Nevin Rosaasen is a fourth-generation farmer from eastern Saskatchewan where he continues to farm with his brother and parents. Nevin holds a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, Agronomy major and a minor in Agricultural Economics as well as a Master of Arts in International Trade Policy from the Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey, California. Nevin has worked at the provincial, national and international levels including publishing at the UN on the New Era of Carbon accounting, Implications for Latin America and Caribbean Exports.

Nevin currently works with Alberta Pulse Growers as their Sustainability and Government Relations Lead. His focus is on water, pesticides, biodiversity, and climate change. Mr. Rosaasen loves working at the grass roots level and going to work for farmers everyday.
